Everyday Stewardship

"I am the Lord who brought you from Ur of the Chaldeans to give you this land as a possession." (GENESIS 15:7)

Just as the Lord gave Abraham, Moses and the Israelites a land to possess, He has also given each of us a home. Whether your home is grand or humble, it is a gift from God. Abraham prepared a great sacrifice to the Lord in gratitude for the home God gave him. How do you show your gratitude to God for the home He has given you? Do you invest equally in your church home, or your eternal home just as you invest in your earthly home?

A Steward's Story

After hearing Father Frank suggest that instead of giving something up for Lent we should consider adding something, we decided to attend daily Mass each morning at 7:30 during Lent.

Participating in daily morning Mass has been different than attending Sunday Mass in subtle, but important ways. As with many new efforts, we are often forced to confront the seemingly unfamiliar. In some ways, this helps us see things in a new light that we have come to take for granted or had not even noticed before, due in part we suppose, to our tendency to default to auto-pilot, even while attending Mass. Walking a familiar path to church but at a new time of day, being in a quieter environment, sharing Mass with different people, all required that we do a familiar thing, but with new intention and purpose.

Daily morning Mass is sparsely, but as it turns out, faithfully attended. As newcomers to it, we met "regulars" who we came to know by name though our greetings and shared offerings. We looked forward to seeing them as a positive part of each new day that felt truly inclusive and celebratory.

This Lenten season, we rediscovered something that was there all the time, fellow parishioners who share each day as a community strengthened by their Faith and with a positive outlook for what lies ahead.

Stand Firm in the Lord

As we begin our season of fasting, prayer, and almsgiving, the reading from Deuteronomy reminds us of our duty of almsgiving, that we “set [our offerings] before the Lord, [our] God, [and] shall bow down in [God’s] presence” (Deuteronomy 26:10). The reading from Romans refers us to our prayer, reminding us that “The word is near you, in your mouth and in your heart . . . For everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved” (Romans 10:8, 13). These are comforting words, and encourage us to ask God for what we need and to aid us in our prayer. Finally, the Gospel of Luke shows us a fasting Jesus, who was tempted as we are, and who knows what it means to be human. Someone once said that temptation arises when you’re tired and weary, and the devil comes along and makes a perfectly reasonable suggestion. Jesus shows us that, with his help, we too can overcome our temptations, reasonable as they may sound.

Mantente Firme en El Señor

No es difícil imaginar, en esta época de guerras, que grupos malvados tiendan a la destrucción de la humanidad y locuras políticas, que las palabras de san Pablo fueron tan precisas, aún para el tiempo en que vivió. Pareciera que el mundo nunca cambia. Pablo dice “muchos se comportan como enemigos de la cruz de Cristo.

Para los que piensan en cosas terrenas, su destino es la perdición. . . (Filipenses 3: 18, 19). El resultado es la destrucción de personas inocentes y del planeta mismo. Pero Pablo dice a los filipenses: “somos ciudadanos del cielo, de donde esperamos como salvador a Jesucristo el Señor” (3:20). Él “transformará nuestro cuerpo frágil en un cuerpo glorioso semejante al suyo” (3:21). Nota que él dice “cuerpo” en lugar de “cuerpos”. Él habla acerca de la completa comunidad de creyentes, quienes, siguiendo el ejemplo de Jesús y Pablo, vendrán a la gloria de Dios. Así que “¡manténganse firmes en el Señor!” (4:1).

Ears to Hear and Eyes to See

We began the Lenten season on Ash Wednesday with the words of the prophet Joel: “Even now, says the Lord, return to me with your whole heart.”

In Lent, we enter into a journey of conversion. Through prayer, almsgiving and fasting, we prepare our hearts to encounter the Lord of life in his risen glory at the feast that crowns our whole year. Each Easter Vigil, along with the catechumens who are baptized, we celebrate the moment in our own lives when we (or our parents and godparents, speaking on our behalf) proclaimed our intention to live (with our whole hearts) as children of light. When catechumens and candidates are welcomed in the Rite of Acceptance and state their desire for baptism, part of the ritual calls for their sponsors to place the sign of the cross over each of their senses, marking them as followers of Christ. As the eyes are signed, the presider says, “Receive the sign of the cross on your eyes that you may see the glory of God.”

In today’s first reading and Gospel, we have two instances of human beings contemplating the wonder of the divine through the gift of sight.

For Abram, who God had called saying, “Go forth from your land, your relatives, and from your father’s house to a land that I will show you” (Genesis 12:1), the innumerable stars in the night’s sky are the sign of his creator’s ability to bring light from darkness and fulfill even seemingly impossible promises. God’s instruction to Abram, “Look up at the sky and count the stars, if you can,” comes in response to Abram’s anguished cry, “Look, you have given me no offspring.” Abram is seeing from a human, limited perspective. Though God has promised to make his name great, he and his wife are elderly and childless. How can his name be great if he has no heir to carry it on?

But God’s sight is not like ours. Where we might be tempted to see only barriers and obstacles, God calls us to look beyond. In turning his gaze to the stars, Abram’s eyes are trained to focus on the limitless expansion of God’s creation, a creation that he is invited to be a part of, even though it is unknowable, uncontrollable and defies toward the joy of Easter, may our eyes be opened to glory of God present all around

In the Gospel reading, Peter, John and James are also treated to a revelation of God’s glory in the Transfiguration. On the mountain, in prayer, Jesus is transformed from the humble preacher and wonderworker they had come to know, to a man clothed in “dazzling white” who converses with Moses and Elijah. Inside of a cloud, they hear the words: “This is my chosen Son; listen to him.”

Abram, Peter, John and James are each offered glimpses into the divine life of God. When Abram wakes up the next morning, the stars he gazed at in wonder will no longer be visible. As James, John and Peter make their way down the mountain, they are accompanied by their friend Jesus, no longer remarkable in his clothing or conversation partners. And yet, we know the stars remain even when we cannot see them. And Jesus, whether he is found in a manger as a vulnerable infant, resplendent on a mountain top, or nailed to the wood of the cross, is always the Son of God.

In the spiritual life, we might intend to live as children of the light, but unless we have eyes to see and ears to hear God working in our midst, we miss the opportunity to live into the fullness of life which Jesus promises to his followers.

Poet Brian Doyle wrote in A Book of Uncommon Prayer, “We are handed miracles beyond number, every blessed moment, if only we can train ourselves to open and see and hear and taste and feel and smell and absorb them.”

As we journey toward the joy of Easter, may our eyes be opened to glory of God present all around us. May we recommit with our whole hearts to live as children of light.
